

MANCHEGO

Six design directions for the website

Digital identity study · Kelowna, British Columbia · Prepared for Evelyn

A · Woodblock Coast B · Stone Fruit C · Field Kit D · Kelowna Pop E · Cellar Door F · Grazing Board

Every route is a working page. Photography shown is existing material and is fully replaceable.

What the references told me

Read as evidence, not instructions.

Keep

- + The routed wooden MANCHEGO letters on the cart — physical, ownable, expensive-looking.
- + The terracotta red. It reads across every asset and it is already yours.
- + The cheese-wedge crest as a stamp for cups, forks and stickers.
- + Food photographed in hands, standing up, in daylight. That is the product truth.
- + Bite. Sip. Savor. — on the cart and the crest, where it works.

Fix

- Four different wordmarks across five assets: routed slab, retro script, condensed poster sans, and an engraved crest. Pick one lockup, one stamp, and stop.
- The Canva sticker layer — speech bubble, smiley, curved arrows. Stock assets read as template to exactly the audience you want.
- Every seasonal poster is a different brand: cream serif at Christmas, brown poster sans in autumn, red licensed-character promo. No thread.
- The site currently has to explain that charcuterie is the main event. Cups and boards lead in every route here; pancakes and sodas support.
- Licensed characters in promo art are a legal risk and are not in this deck.

What every route shares

Navigation

Four links and one action. Menu, Catering, Events, About, Inquire. Nothing else earns a slot.

Story

Evelyn is on the page, by name, with her own words. A solo maker is the strongest asset a catering brand can have.

Menu

Rows, not cards. Charcuterie cups first, grazing second, snack cart and sodas after. Price visible without a click.

Markets

The November dates live on the site, not only on Instagram. This is the page people check on a Friday.

Booking

Seven questions, one screen each. Progress meter, editable answer chips, back never destroys anything.

Photography

Every image sits in a replaceable slot sized for tall, wide and square crops. New photography drops in without a redesign.

The inquiry flow, same logic, two different skins.

Woodblock Coast

The routed wooden letters from the cart, promoted from signage to the whole language. Fairground and produce-crate lettering, engineered.

TYPEFACES

Big Shoulders Display 800/900
Newsreader (editorial serif)

PALETTE

BEST FOR

Markets, festivals, breweries, high-volume corporate.

TRADE-OFF

Loud. Less at home on a luxury wedding shortlist.

Mobile

Inquiry flow, step 2 of 7

Stone Fruit

The Okanagan orchard. The handmade quality lives in a wonky variable serif instead of sticker doodles, so nothing looks bought from a template pack.

TYPEFACES

Fraunces (SOFT 60 / WONK 1)

Familjen Grotesk

PALETTE

#FFFBF2	#F0A868	#BE2F49	#2E1A22	#6E8F5A
milk	apricot	berry	plum	orchard

BEST FOR

Weddings, showers, birthdays, Instagram.

TRADE-OFF

Softest of the six. Least authority with corporate buyers.

Field Kit

MANCHEGO

Menu Catering Events About Inquire

Mobile charcuterie unit · Kelowna, BC

Eight feet of cart. Built in front of you.

Cups, boards, grazing tables, mini pancakes and dirty sodas – assembled on site, never the night before.

Weddings, showers, corporate, and the Okanagan market circuit.

Footprint	96 × 48 in
Setup	20 min
Power	Self-contained
Cups from	20 guests
Carts from	40 guests
Base	Kelowna, BC

New booking spring 2027 Kelowna · Vernon · West Kelowna · Lake Country Reply within 1 business day

The cart as equipment. Footprint, setup time, power and minimums are answered in the first viewport, before anyone has to ask.

TYPEFACES

Syne 800

DM Mono, used as body text

PALETTE

BEST FOR

Corporate, hotels, venue partnerships, film catering.

TRADE-OFF

Deliberately unwarm. Not the route for a cute brand.

Kelowna Pop

Hand-drawn identity, sleek interface. A drawn Evelyn behind the cart, reused everywhere — cups, van, tote, avatar, confirmation screen.

TYPEFACES

Bricolage Grotesque 800
Shantell Sans (drawn, variable)

PALETTE

BEST FOR

Markets, families, social, brand recognition at a stall.

TRADE-OFF

Charm has a ceiling on a $6k wedding quote.

Mobile

Inquiry flow, step 2 of 7

Cellar Door

Okanagan wine country, done properly. Centred, restrained, oxblood and gold, high-contrast Bodoni. The route that sells the highest ticket.

TYPEFACES

Bodoni Moda
Instrument Sans

PALETTE

BEST FOR

Luxury weddings, wineries, estate venues, corporate galas.

TRADE-OFF

Formal. Would need a lighter sibling for market days.

Mobile

Inquiry flow, step 2 of 7

Grazing Board

The homepage laid out as a board. Tiles of food, colour and numbers in one grid — the product itself becomes the layout system.

TYPEFACES

Instrument Serif

Archivo (variable width)

PALETTE

BEST FOR

All-rounder. Weddings and corporate without changing voice.

TRADE-OFF

Grid-led, so it needs a steady supply of good photography.

The booking flow

The inquiry form is the product. Seven questions, one per screen, in all six routes. Choice questions advance themselves; typed answers do not. Every answer you have already given sits underneath as an editable chip — tap it and you jump straight back with nothing lost. The confirmation screen repeats the occasion, venue and guest count back, names a real reply time, and is signed by Evelyn rather than saying "your form has been submitted."

What I would do

A recommendation, not a vote. Pick the one that matches the customer you want more of next year.

▣ Lead with F — Grazing Board.

It carries weddings and corporate in the same voice, the board-as-layout idea is genuinely ownable, and it is the least likely of the six to date.

▣ Hold E — Cellar Door in reserve.

If the business tilts toward estate weddings and wineries, this is the one that lets you raise prices without apologising.

▣ Take D — Kelowna Pop to the market stall.

The drawn Evelyn belongs on cups, forks, the van and the Instagram avatar, even if the site itself goes another way.

▣ One wordmark. One stamp.

Routed slab lettering for the physical world, the cheese-wedge crest for cups and forks. Retire the retro script and the poster sans.

▣ Shoot once, properly.

Half a day: Evelyn building a board, hands receiving a cup, cart in landscape at golden hour, one overhead of a full table. Everything else can wait.
